ELECTION IN THE CITY .- The election in the city was a very quiet one yesterday, and the vote cast is light, appar- leak, and she was compelled to remain ently less than half the registered vote. The Democracy appeared to be thoroughly organized, and were very account oughly organized, and were very account of the Matative in getting out their vote. The Re- moras trade. publicans in the early part of the day were rather slow but towards evening got waked up and made considerable was a good deal of cross firing on township tickets and some on the legislative candidates. In the latter case the scratching on one side appears to have been just about neutrallized by that on the other. Below we give the returns from the seven city townships. It will be seen they give the Democratic legislative ticket an average majority of about 185.

arrivals report seet 5 inches on Guyan, the worst place between here and Pomeroy.

The St. Marys had a big trip of freight and people for Maysville. The Major Anderson, for Pomeroy, and the Mountain Belle, for Evansville, had fair trips of freight and people.

The St. James had 4t timbers broken when she sunk last week. The cost of repairing her will not be far from $5,000. She will be in the water again Saturday, and resume her trips Monday.

Capt. Stockdale has received information that the steamer Australia that be built at Pittaburgh last spring, for South America, had reached Barranquilla, her destination, in safety. She had a very rough time of it, and at one time was condemned by the authorities at Kingston, Jamsica, as unseaworthy. She reached Barranquilla on the lat of September.

The salvage claimed by the Bismarck and Olive Branch on the Arthur's freight has been satisfactorily settled by the insurance companies paying the former $7,000, and the latter $2,000. We received the above information from reliable authority.

The first run of coal to the lower ports from Pittsburgh was in 1841. Zacharish Reno was the pioneer. He moved to Pittsburgh in in 1814, and has lived in the vicinity ever since. In the year mentioned Mr. Reno built and loaded with coal two flatboats, sixty feet long and twelve feet wide, for Messra, Prentice & Bakewell, of Louisville, who established a foundry in that city in the year 1813. The boats feft Pittsburgh in April, 1814, in charge of Mr. Reno's son, Lewis H., and made the trip to Louisville in thirteen days. The amount of coal in both boats was 2,400 busbels.

§The Louisville Courier of yesterday says:

Yesterday afternoon a puff of wind caught the cabin of the new steamer Mary Miller, which boat had just been placed on the canal docks to be caulked, and threw her into the river. It will prove a total loss, and greatly retard her completion.

We saw yesterday a new yalve which we are assured by the best practical engineers is a great improvement on all kinds of valves now, in use for steam enginee. It is a perfect balance, or more correctly speaking, it does away with all pressure on the top of the valve. It is very simple, and is now being placed on the engines of the steamer St. John, Captain W. R. Greathouse, by Kirk, Dennis & Co. It is the invention of Captain R. S. Kirk, of the above firm. He claims a saving of 18,414 cubic inches of steam in twenty revolutions of the engines of the St.
John, her cylinders being eighteen inches in diameter. Engineers and steamboutmen should examine for themselves.
